Shaping the Crochet Slippers

Pattern Notes

1. The side where you have 2 tails hanging will form the ankle side and the opposite side will form the toe side.
2. The textured side is the right side of the slipper.

Left Slipper- Cinching Toe Side

Note: You can see the video given at the end.

Keep the rectangle textured side up. The toe side should be at the top.

For the left slipper, from the right edge, fold in a little more than 1/3rd of the rectangle and place a marker. Open the fold, use a 2-yard strand of yarn and make a running stitch along the very edge of the marked part taking care to catch only one loop.

Pull both ends to cinch. Do not cinch too tight or you will feel a lump in your slipper. Tie both ends to hold it in place and sew any opening shut working through the very edge and catching only 1 loop at a time, knot to secure.

Sew back to get your yarn near the marker, do not trim the excess yarn. We will come back to this part later after sewing the ankle side.

Right Slipper-Cinching Toe Side

Keep the rectangle textured side up. The toe side should be at the top.

For the right slipper, from the left edge, fold in a little more than 1/3rd of the rectangle and place a marker. Cinch the left side this time and seam it just like you did with your left slipper.

Note: When you seam the ankle side or the back of your slipper, the seam will be worked 1/2 inch inwards along the top half to make it snug.

Fold the ankle side in the middle, align the top edges, using the yarn tail left, start seaming the ankle working 1/2 inch inside, work along a slanting line to hit the middle, and from there work along the very edge to join the 2 layers.

Make a couple of knots. The ankle seam will be a little to the side because of the way these slippers are shaped.

Closing the Toe Side- Left and Right Slipper

Turn the slipper right side out. The flap will fold to the right for the right slipper and to the left for the left slipper.

Now insert your foot into the slipper. If you are making it for someone else and the slipper is too small to fit, just insert the front of your foot.

Fold the flap over as far as possible and sew in place using the yarn tail left at the toe side. You can use a running stitch. Since tapestry needle is blunt you don't have to worry about poking your foot.

Finishing the Crochet Slipper

1. Sew on 2 or 3 buttons to the edge of the flap for embellishment. Repeat with the other slipper.
2. Weave in any tails left along the inner side of the slipper.
